I have just read your letter to the members and have also read several letters sent to the board from several major affiliates around the country. These letters along with chatter on several web sites show the state of the NRHA in a state of discontent that to my knowledge has not happened before. It is to the point that major affiliates have told the board that they will not enforce some rules if the board passes them. I am sure these affiliates do not take that action lightly and it is one small step away from affiliates disaffiliating themselves from the NRHA. If that would happen I am afraid that would be a disaster for the NRHA. In light of the unrest in the association your letter stating over work of staff as a reason for not passing new rules is not believable. Do you not think it time for the good of the NRHA to come out and plainly state that the drug rule and dues rule are poorly conceived and should not be passed. It is time for this board to stop treating it's members like they do not understand what is going on. This board has lost all credibility with the membership and needs to do some bold things to regain that credibility and respect of the membership. To do any less could result in the downfall of the NRHA as we know it. Thank You for your time.
